Dear

This is in response to a request dated December 27, 2005, submitted by your authorized representative, for a ruling to waive the 60-day rollover requirement contained in section 408(d)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (the "Code") with respect to Decedent A. Correspondence dated January 19, 2007, and July 9, 2007, supplemented the request.

Under penalty of perjury, you have submitted the following facts and representations:

You represent that Decedent A, who was 63 years old at the time of his death, received distributions from IRA X totaling Amount M. You assert that his failure to accomplish a rollover within the 60-day period prescribed by section 408(d)(3) of the Code was due his death, which occurred within 60 days after his withdrawal of Amount M from IRA X. You further represent that Amount M has not been used for any other purpose.

Decedent A maintained IRA X at Company C. On Date I, 2004, Decedent A withdrew Amount M from IRA X with the intent of depositing the funds into a new rollover account that he had established with Company D. On the same date as the withdrawal of Amount M from IRA X, Decedent A was admitted to the hospital for a sudden illness. On Date H, 2005, 27 days after the withdrawal, Decedent A passed away. Over the months preceding this withdrawal and his death, Decedent A had withdrawn other IRA funds and deposited them in rollover accounts. Documentation submitted by your authorized representative indicate that Decedent A had intended to rollover Amount M, but was prevented from doing so by his death.

You, as executor of the estate of Decedent A, now wish to roll over Amount M to an Individual Retirement Arrangement.

You represent that under State Q law, you, as executor of the estate of Decedent A have the authority to establish a qualified rollover account on behalf of Decedent A.

Based on the foregoing, you request that the Internal Revenue Service waive the 60-day rollover requirement with respect to the distribution of Amount M from IRA X.

Section 408(d)(3) of the Code defines, and provides the rules applicable to IRA rollovers. Section 408(d)(3)(A) of the Code provides that section 408(d)(1) of the Code does not apply to any amount paid or distributed out of an IRA to the individual for whose benefit the IRA is maintained if (i) the entire amount received (including money and any other property) is paid into an IRA for the benefit of such individual not later than the 60th day after the day on which the individual receives the payment or distribution; or (ii) the entire amount received (including money and any other property) is paid into an eligible retirement plan (other than an IRA) for the benefit of such individual not later than the 60th day after the date on which the payment or distribution is received, except that the maximum amount which may be paid into such plan may not exceed the portion of the amount received which is includible in gross income (determined without regard to section 408(d)(3)).

Section 408(d)(3)(B) of the Code provides that section 408(d)(3) does not apply to any amount described in section 408(d)(3)(A)(i) received by an individual from an IRA if at any time during the 1-year period ending on the day of such receipt such individual received any other amount described in section 408(d)(3)(A)(I) from an IRA which was not includible in gross income because of the application of section 408(d)(3).

Section 408(d)(3)(D) of the Code provides a similar 60-day rollover period for partial rollovers.

Section 408(d)(3)(E) of the Code provides that the rollover provisions of section 408(d) do not apply to any amount required to be distributed under section 408(a)(6).

Section 408(d)(3)(I) of the Code provides that the Secretary may waive the 60-day requirement under sections 408(d)(3)(A) and 408(d)(3)(D) of the Code where the failure to waive such requirement would be against equity or good conscience, including casualty, disaster, or other events beyond the reasonable control of the individual subject to such requirement. Only distributions that occurred after December 31, 2001, are eligible for the waiver under section 408(d)(3)(I) of the Code.

Section 401(a)(9) provides for required distributions from a qualified plan and section 408(a)(6) provides that similar rules shall apply to individual retirement accounts. After the employee dies, the timing of these required distributions depends on whether distributions had already begun, whether the account had a designated beneficiary, and whether the designated beneficiary is the decedent's spouse. Section 401(a)(9)(E) defines designated beneficiary for purposes of § 401(a)(9) as "any individual designated as a beneficiary by the employee." Section 1.401(a)(9)-4, Q&A-4, further provides that "[i]n order to be a designated beneficiary, an individual must be a beneficiary as of the date of death."

Rev. Proc. 2003-16, 2003-4 I.R.B. 359, (January 27, 2003), provides that in determining whether to grant a waiver of the 60-day rollover requirement pursuant to section 408(d)(3)(I), the Service will consider all relevant facts and circumstances, including: (1) errors committed by a financial institution; (2) inability to complete a rollover due to death, disability, hospitalization, incarceration, restrictions imposed by a foreign country or postal error, (3) the use of the amount distributed (for example, in the case of payment by check, whether the check was cashed); and (4) the time elapsed since the distribution occurred.

The information presented and documentation submitted by you is consistent with your assertion that Decedent A's failure to accomplish a timely rollover was caused by his death within the 60-day rollover period.

Accordingly, based on the above, and subject to the restrictions noted below, pursuant to section 408(d)(3)(I) of the Code, the Service hereby waives the 60-day rollover requirement with respect to Amount M. You are granted a period of 60 days from the issuance of this ruling letter to contribute Amount M into a Rollover IRA. Provided all other requirements of section 408(d)(3) of the Code, except the 60-day requirement, are met with respect to such contribution, the contribution of Amount M will be considered a rollover contribution within the meaning of section 408(d)(3) of the Code.

However, it is noted that the Service will not treat any beneficiary named by you, as executor, as a designated beneficiary under section 401(a)(9). Section 1.401(a)(9)-4, Q&A-4, provides that a designated beneficiary must be a beneficiary as of the date of death. Thus, for purposes of section 401(a)(9), the rollover IRA will have no designated beneficiary.

Finally, the scope of the executor's powers is a matter of state law. This ruling assumes that your actions in contributing amounts M into an IRA, set up in Decedent A's name, is in accordance with the laws of State Q and taken pursuant to your authority as executor.
